Mills and Wadsworth Coming Here Saturday

Republican Candidates for Governor and United States Senator to Speak at Auditorium Theatre at 1:30 o'clock Saturday Afternoon—Record Crowd Expected From City and County—Voters Anxious to Hear Both Men.

Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, and James W. Wadsworth, Jr., the Republican candidate for state senator, will close their up-state campaign with a big Republican mass meeting on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Auditorium Theatre on Pine Grove avenue. The meeting will be started promptly at 1:30 o'clock so as to give both men an opportunity of delivering their message and leaving for New York city later in the afternoon where they close their campaign with a monster mass meeting that night.

Radio fans in Kingston and Ulster county have been following the addresses of Mr. Mills and Senator Wadsworth over the radio during the campaign, and this will be the only opportunity they will have of seeing and hearing them in person in Kingston.

The mass meeting will be attended by everyone interested in campaign issues whether affiliated with the Republican party or not. Both men have been arousing enthusiasm throughout the state and thousands have assembled at the various meetings that they have addressed. It is expected that a record breaking crowd will turn out to hear them in Kingston Saturday afternoon.

Mellett Murder Suspect Arrested

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 25 (AP)—For three months, while he was sought the country over as the man having full knowledge of the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, on July 16, Patrick Eugene McDermott lived in luxury in Cleveland. Then his desire to see his mother led him homeward and into the hands of the law.

Last night he was lodged in Stark county jail, the last of the trio indicted for the murder to be arrested. The other two, Ben Rudner of Massillon and Louis Mazer of Canton, are awaiting trial. Mazer goes on trial November 8 and Rudner December 6.

McDermott was arrested yesterday morning at Twin Rock, Pa. He was captured in a trap laid by his brothers, Tom and Bernard, who long ago promised detectives they would try to locate him so he could tell his story.

One of three developments now is expected:

Pat will confess he is guilty of a part in the murder; the indictment against him will be nolle prossed, or he will play another "waiting game," refusing to talk and defying the state to show its evidence in court.

Detectives admitted today they feel the case against Rudner and Mazer much strengthened by McDermott's apprehension but said they have obtained no confessions.

Mrs. Hicks Has Fractured Skull

Mrs. James Hicks of No. 71 Albany avenue is confined to the Kingston City Hospital with a fracture at the base of a skull as the result of being knocked down by an automobile driven by Irving Kantor of No. 170 1/2 Down street about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Her condition was reported this morning as fair. She is being attended by Dr. Frank A. Johnston.

Mr. Kantor in his report of the accident to police headquarters stated that he was driving on Broadway and at the intersection of St. James street Mrs. Hicks stepped from the curb directly in front of his car. He applied the brakes and stopped as quickly as possible.

Mrs. Hicks was removed from under the car in an unconscious condition and rushed to the hospital. Mr. Kantor was not arrested by the police as the accident appeared to have been unavoidable.

Smith Sure of Mills's Defeat

Says Hearst Gave Republican Candidate the Kiss of Death—Doesn't Believe a Word About The Milk Situation.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP)—Governor Smith today carries his campaign for reelection into his native city of New York, which three times previously gave him substantial support in his successful efforts to become chief executive of New York state.

Leaving Albany late today the governor will stop off at Yonkers for a night meeting, and then continue to New York. With him at Yonkers will be Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for United States senator, who spent the week end at his home in New York, and will campaign with the governor for the remainder of the week.

The governor will take into the Metropolitan area with him the firm conviction that his Republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, has no chance for election, for several reasons.

Foremost the governor places the support accorded Mr. Mills by William Randolph Hearst, New York publisher and former Democratic candidate for governor.

"The crowning climax to the alleged failure of the Republican campaign, the governor told newspapermen yesterday, 'is the undisputed fact that William Randolph Hearst gave him the kiss of death.'"

Governor Smith also declared that he does not "believe a word" of what Mr. Mills says about the New York city milk situation, intimating that he might have something further to say on this during the week, the governor remarked: "I'm satisfied he's not on the level."

For the "text" of his speech at Yonkers tonight the governor again will use a quotation from one of Mr. Mills's speeches, he indicated yesterday. He has used this method for several recent speeches, and he explained it today with the remark "It is so easy to turn Mills's speeches against him. They're all so senseless."

"Chick" Lipsett Fractures Skull

Wallkill's Racing Auto Driver in Veterans' Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, as Result of Accident in Race There on Saturday—Some What Better Today.

Arnold Lipsett, Wallkill's racing automobile driver, better known as "Chick," is in the Veterans' Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, with a fractured skull sustained when his racing car upset on the track at the Ellenville fair grounds during a race Saturday afternoon. Today at the hospital his condition was stated as being fairly good.

The accident occurred in one of the final races on the program and it was while Lipsett was driving his car at a fast rate of speed that he either lost control or the steering gear became jammed and the car turned over, hurling Lipsett clear of the machine. He was picked up and examined by Dr. B. F. Neal of Ellenville, who ordered him removed to the hospital where it was found he had sustained a fractured skull and other injuries.

The accident occurred so quickly that just how it happened is not known. One opinion was that the steering gear became jammed and another that Lipsett pulled his car too close to the fence and the hub cap on the car struck the fence, causing the car to upset.

There were three cars racing at the time of the accident; the other two cars being driven by Benjamin Brice and Robert Goldsmith, both of Ellenville.

NOTHING COLLAPSED AT CRUISE OF PERFORMANCE.
Detroit, Oct. 25 (AP)—Harry Houdini, escape king and magician, collapsed at the close of his opening performance last night. The hospital reported Houdini to be suffering from abdominal injuries sustained during one of his performances.

Dr. Leo Drexler, attending Frank Tenney, the comedian who collapsed during a performance in which he was carrying several weeks ago, said he believed Houdini is suffering from appendicitis.

Coolidge Endorses Senator Butler

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—The political waters of the Capital rippled today in ever-widening circles from the impact of the latest element cast into their midst—endorsement by President Coolidge of Senator William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, who is opposed in the November elections in Massachusetts by former Senator David I. Walsh.

The pronouncement, the President's first utterance in behalf of any Republican candidate for national office in the impending elections, was contained in a letter from the chief executive which was made public by the Massachusetts Republican state committee.

It also praised Governor Alvan T. Fuller, a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, and drew immediate fire from Democratic leaders in a form of a prediction by Chairman Oldfield of that party's congressional campaign committee that the letter would react against both candidates. He charged Mr. Coolidge with "repudiating" his previous stand and with "interference."

"Apparently the President," Chairman Oldfield declared, "is very much frightened at the prospect of the defeat of Senator Butler and Governor Fuller. When President Wilson wrote a similar letter in 1918, the Republicans were very much horrified."

The letter replied to a telegram asking whether the President intended to cast his vote in his home city of Northampton. The chief executive wrote that he and Mrs. Coolidge planned to make the trip but that he had requested to have absentee ballots sent him for use in the event that he could not return to Massachusetts to vote in person.

Woman Killed by Car at Saugerties

Had Gone There With Husband to Dine With Friend Sunday—Struck and Killed as She Alighted from Bus.

Mrs. Mary H. Freidhoff of 167 Henry street, this city, was instantly killed at Saugerties Sunday shortly before noon when she was struck by a car as she alighted from the Kingston-Saugerties bus and was passing around the bus to cross the street.

Her husband, Frederick W. Freidhoff, was injured.

Both had gone on the Klemm and Huber bus to Saugerties where they were to take dinner with Mrs. Anna Stenken of Barclay Heights. Arriving at the Stenken home, they alighted from the bus and started to pass around to the rear. A car driven by James O'Neill of Richmond Hill, L. I., was passing. It struck Mrs. Freidhoff and although the car was immediately stopped and assistance rendered, she was beyond aid. Mr. Freidhoff was slightly injured.

Police Captain Arthur W. Richter questioned those who witnessed the accident and inquired of Mr. O'Neill concerning the facts, and later allowed him to go after it was apparent that the accident was unavoidable on the part of Mr. O'Neill.

In the O'Neill car were Henry Margold and Miss Agnes Tunington of Long Island. At the time of the accident the bus driven by John Secney had discharged its passengers and had started on toward Saugerties village.

Dr. James Krom of Saugerties was summoned by the Saugerties police and Coroner Humiston of Kerhonkson was notified and on permission of the coroner the body was removed to the Lasher undertaking rooms in Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Freidhoff came to Kingston from Brooklyn a few years ago and since that time have resided on Henry street where Mr. Freidhoff led a retired life.

Queen Reviews West Point Cadets

On board Queen Marie's special at Albany, Oct. 25 (AP)—Marie of Rumania coupled the roles of queen and soldier today as she stood in a drenching rain to review battalions of cadets at the United States military academy at West Point, the first official act of her trans-continental tour which began at New York this morning.

Thrusting aside the protestations of her advisors who for half an hour had kept her from alighting from her special train when it arrived at Garrison, across the Hudson river from West Point, the queen finally hopped from the car steps into the downpour and made her way alone to the waiting automobiles.

She refused umbrellas and rubbers to protect her feet, except in fragile sedan and easily slipped across sodden and rutted tracks with Princess Rumania and Prince Nicholas dashing after her.

Steam Freighter Upsets in Hudson, Two Persons Die

Freighter Which Piles Between Peekskill and New York Capsizes When Hit by Gale—One of Nine Saved in Serious Condition.

Irrington on Hudson, Oct. 25 (AP)—A man and a woman were killed and nine other persons narrowly escaped death today when the 125-foot steam freighter G. F. Brady, of Peekskill, capsized in a gale that swept the Hudson, and was torn to pieces by a boiler explosion. The dead are Mrs. Demund, cook, and Charles Hayes, fireman. A tug saved the rest of the crew and they suffered only from shock and exposure.

As the freighter, which piles between Peekskill and New York, was passing this point the gale struck it with tremendous force and listing slowly to starboard, the craft slowly turned over. The intruder of water to the engine room was followed by a tremendous explosion and persons on shore saw portions of the boat thrown high into the air.

The steamer seemed to be a loss and efforts on shore and by the crews of river craft were turned to life saving. A tug was the first boat to reach the scene and lines were thrown to the live members of the crew who were pulled on board. Only one of the nine saved was in serious condition and his condition was not considered critical.

The Brady, a 200 ton craft with a 25-foot beam, sank after being ripped apart and only its spars could be seen above the water. After the nine men had been saved search was continued for Hayes and Mrs. Oscar Demund, but when no trace of their bodies had been found after two hours Captain Odell Morton, of the Brady, reported to the Morton Day Line at Peekskill that they were unquestionably lost. The Brady was headed for New York when struck by the storm. The only persons on board were the eleven members of the crew. Both Mrs. Demund and Hayes lived in Peekskill.

The survivor, taken to the Dobbs Ferry Hospital, is Thomas H. Kully, chief engineer, suffering from burns and immersion. Kully and Haynes were in the engine room when the freighter capsized. Kully was able to make his escape but Hayes was trapped as he attempted to ascend the steel ladder.

Tug Rescued Crew.
The Brady was loaded with yeast and moved. The broad expanse of the Tappan Zee was thrown into wild confusion as the gale struck it, whipping the wide stretch of water into tempestuous waves. The nearest craft when the freighter capsized and exploded was the tug Bauer, which was half a mile away. The captain of the Bauer ordered his towing lines cast off and made full speed for the scene of the accident.

Captain Morton was at the wheel in the pilot house when his ship rolled over but managed to escape by smashing the windows with an axe. The accident happened so quickly that there was no opportunity for Captain Morton to blow the distress signal and the first warning of the explosion. Wreckage was strewn about the water over an area of 100 yards. Several of those who were saved had a chance to grab life preservers but others had to leap into the water or were thrown there without any chance to guard themselves. Kully said that he undoubtedly would have died in the engine room with Hayes but that by some freak of the infuriating waters he was shot clean out of the ship as though by a geyser.

The gale which blew in from northern Jersey and Westchester was said to be the worst experienced here in many years. Heavy traffic between Tarrytown and Nyack was at a standstill because of the winds and high seas. For several hours all power was cut off in the district between Peekskill and Yonkers. Property damage was believed to have been heavy.

STRAY BULLET CRASHED THROUGH WINDOW SUNDAY
Miss Harriet St. John of No. 55 Linderman avenue had a narrow escape from being struck by a stray bullet that crashed through the window about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The bullet broke the glass, passed through the curtains and narrowly missed her head as she was seated near the window. The shooting was reported to the police by her father, Howard R. St. John, and Officer Soper investigated. The police believe that some boys were hunting in the vicinity. As it is against the law to discharge firearms in the city, the person who discharged the gun will be arrested if caught.

President May Remove Officials

Without The Consent of The Senate, Supreme Court Rules—Chief Executive Must Be Free To Act On His Own Discretion.

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—The right of the President to remove postmasters and other executive appointees from office without the consent of the senate was upheld today by the supreme court in the Myers case from Portland, Ore.

In an opinion by Chief Justice Taft, the court held that federal statutes which have been regarded as withholding that power from the President are void.

The case, involving removal by President Wilson of Frank S. Myers as postmaster at Portland, had proved a focal point upon which the legislative and executive branches of the government had come to a notable trial of constitutional right before the highest court.

So important was the question that the court designated Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, a former president of the American Bar Association, to represent congress in argument of the case.

The point directly at issue was whether congress had exceeded its power when, in the act authorizing presidential appointment of first, second and third class postmasters "with the consent of the senate" it also declared that such postmasters could only be removed when the senate assented.

Answering this question the court declared that congress has no constitutional authority to restrict the president in the removal of officials from offices, it created, but that the chief executive, charged with the administration of the government's business, must be free to act on his own discretion.

Cracks Draining The Ashokan
Veins Slowly Draining Ashokan Reservoir Threaten New York City Water Supply—Ruins of Inundated Towns Are Again Visible.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—The New York city water supply is seriously threatened by subterranean cracks which are slowly draining the $160,000,000 Ashokan reservoir in the Catskill mountains, the New York Herald Tribune says today.

A recent survey, it says, supports the theory that millions of gallons from the huge basin are seeping away through the veins, and thence to the surface again in adjacent water courses.

The reservoir, described as rivaling the Panama Canal as an engineering achievement, is very empty. There has been no lack of rain, however, and feed streams are flush from bank to bank.

Esopus creek, the main source of supply, has been found to diminish its flow shortly after entering the great basin, only to rise a few miles below the dam to full power. It is said to be delivering only a scant 200,000,000 gallons daily compared with 450,000,000 gallons needed for New York's needs.

The water supply in the reservoir is so low that in spots daisies are growing. Other parts are lush meadows. Ruins of towns and villages which were inundated ten years ago, when the huge dam was built, are again visible, as are acres of tree stumps, denoting where once stood forests. Of the 130 billion gallons the reservoir is designed to hold, less than 15 billion gallons remain.

Engineer Denies Report.
Thaddeus Merriman, chief engineer of the board of water supply, today denied that the diminishing water supply in the Ashokan reservoir was due to seepage through subterranean cracks. The shortage, he said, was due to the fact that there was little snow last winter and a small amount of rainfall during the summer.

Mills Sees Effort To Hush Charges

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, today made public results of a laboratory analysis of milk samples which he said were purchased in Bronx and Queens counties between September 23 and October 3 and which he declared showed the milk to be below legal standards.

Numerous specific alleged violations were shown in a statement Mr. Mills said: "It is apparent from the attempt of District Attorney McGeehan of the Bronx and District Attorney Newcombe in Queens that every effort is to be made to evade and hush up my charges."

The laboratory reports were mailed to both district attorneys, Mr. Mills said.

Winchell Not to Blame, Says Jury

Verdict of No Cause of Action in $50,000 Suit for Man's Death—Other Cases Tried and Settled in Supreme Court.

A sealed verdict for defendant of no cause of action was returned at the opening of the supreme court this morning in the $50,000 negligence action brought by Mary E. Tice, as administratrix, against Virgil H. Winchell of West Shokan. Mr. Tice was struck by the automobile of defendant at Albany avenue and Maiden Lane. He was injured and some six weeks later died. Defendant claimed that he was proceeding slowly at the time of the accident and that it was stormy. He contended that Mr. Tice stepped from the walk and on account of the umbrella which he was carrying failed to see the car and collided with the side of the car. The contention of the defendant was that he did not strike deceased but that Mr. Tice walked into the car. F. C. Merritt appeared for N. H. Fessenden, attorney for plaintiff, and Judge William D. Brinrier, Jr., and Roscoe V. Ellisworth appeared for the defendant.

Wants Jewelry Returned.
No. 31. Harry MacGinley plaintiff, against Marie Prall, et al., a replevin action, was held by the court pending the filing of an affidavit setting forth the illness of an important witness of defendant, Frank W. Brooks, who appears for plaintiff, urged the trial of the action. Andrew J. Cook for defendant moved the case over on the grounds that an important witness was ill and unable to appear. He will file an affidavit of Dr. Cannon. The action is to recover some jewelry which plaintiff alleges he gave to defendant on the assumption she was single and on the alleged promise to marry.

Negligence Actions Tried.
Two negligence actions, Charles and Marian Stratton against Mahlon Thomas, were taken up for trial. The actions were tried together. Plaintiffs claim that a car operated by wife of the defendant was operated in a negligent manner on the Bearsville-Wilow road on October 21, 1924, and thereby caused an accident. The plaintiffs were riding in their Maxwell car at the time and claim they were forced off the road, their car damaged and Mrs. Stratton injured about the nose, eye, head and body when she was thrown from the car by the impact. Both parties reside in the town of Woodstock.

Brinrier, Canfield and Elsworth appear for the plaintiffs and Frank W. Brooks appears for the defendant.

No. 265 and 266, Josephine M. Altizio against James C. D'Aprile, Grace and Charles C. Wallace and Joseph M. Altizio and Leonardo Altizio against the same defendants, were both announced as settled. Both were negligence actions.

No. 68, Arthur C. Connelly against Order of the Eastern Star, an action for services, was also announced as settled.

Electrical and Wind Storm Here

Fourteen Electric Lines and Thirty Telephone Lines Put Out of Commission—Trees Uprooted in Ellenville Section—Lightning Strikes Boulevard Station.

A bolt of lightning striking the Boulevard station of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company caused an interruption of electric service in this city for fourteen minutes this morning. In the Freeman office the electrical equipment was out of commission until service was resumed. The electrical storm was accompanied by a high wind which placed fourteen lines of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company out of commission until repairs were made.

At the New York Telephone Company office it was stated that the wind storm had placed thirty lines out of commission and 150 stations in the Ellenville section had been disconnected. There were also a few rural lines damaged by the storm and there was trouble on some of the toll lines.

The storm seemed to be located between Ellenville and this city, and has patrons from Ellenville who are driving in Kingston at noon stated that in the Ellenville section trees had been uprooted and several telephone poles blown down. One pole in that locality was also damaged in the storm.

At West Park and Ulster Park it was reported that while there was some wind it had not caused any damage.

Stockholders Are Approving Local Electric Merger

Stock Certificates Being Deposited With Banks Designated As Agents of Depository by Stockholders of Electric Companies in Accordance With Merger Plan.

Within twenty-four hours after the announcement was made that the various units comprising the Central Hudson System are to be consolidated, the banks which have been designated as agents of the depository were handling an avalanche of stock certificates deposited by stockholders.

It is believed that long before November 15, a large majority of stockholders will have deposited their stock, thereby giving assent to the plan of consolidation. According to the letter to stockholders, the time fixed for the deposit of stock will expire on November 15.

President T. R. Beal issued a statement today regarding the progress of consolidation plans in which he said:

"The reports from the various banks acting as agents indicate that the plan has been favorably received by the stockholders, and we have no reason now to believe that most of them will have a fore November 15. We have endeavored to state the details of the plan as simply as possible and the fact that we have had comparatively few questions to answer indicates that our stockholders are having no trouble in understanding the plan."

"The name of the new company, as has been announced, will be Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. For a long time past we have been using the term Central Hudson System to designate this unified undertaking, and it has been deemed wise to retain Central Hudson in the new corporate name. It has come to stand for utility service in this region both here and outside the territory. The only change therefore is that it is to be called Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation instead of Company."

"We are urging stockholders to act without unnecessary delay because of the immense amount of work involved in carrying out the details of the plan and the desirability of making the change as expeditiously as possible. We are urging them to consult with their bankers or with us in case questions arise and are prepared to render whatever assistance we can in bringing the plan to a speedy conclusion."

Daughter Objects To Locke's Will

An adjournment was taken in the matter of the objection to the probate of the will of Louis L. Locke until November 8, when the matter came up in surrogate's court, this morning. Pearl Turk, a daughter, objects to the probate of the will on the ground that the maker of the will, who resided in Kingston, was mentally disqualified and that the will is illegal and void. Value of estate is $4,500 personal, and bequests were $66 to Montrose Cemetery trustees, $5 to contestant and one-half of residue to each of the sons, Charles H. Locke and John F. Locke, sons. Grant M. Brinrier for contestant; Walter N. Gill for Charles H. Locke and Frederick Stephan, Jr. for John H. Locke, proponents.

Objections have been filed by Virginia Richards to the judicial settlement of the accounts of Minnie Richards, administratrix of estate of Harvey Richards of Saugerties. Adjournment taken to November 9, as Surrogate George F. Kaufman was disqualified, having previously been attorney for administratrix. The matter will come before County Judge Joseph M. Fowler as acting surrogate. Grant M. Brinrier for contestant; Virgil H. Winchell for administratrix. Contestants object to certain charges in the accounts filed.

Deer Moving Out Of the Catskills

Seek Sanctuary in Counties Where There is No Open Season—Falling Off in Some Adirondack Counties and Increase in Southern Counties.

Albany, Oct. 25.—The game protectors of the Conservation Commission have completed a survey of game conditions throughout the state, the results of which have just been reported to the Commission by the inspectors of the various divisions.

A shortage of deer is reported in two of the divisions in the northern part of the state, while marked increases in the number of deer are reported from districts where there is no open season on deer, which would appear to indicate that deer are moving out of the Adirondacks and Catskills into counties where a permanent close season gives them sanctuary. In some of the counties which have no open season deer are increasing and doing damage to such an extent that an open season is recommended by the protectors. If deer continue to increase in the counties not recognized as deer counties, with the establishment of more and larger game sanctuaries, it is possible in the opinion of Llewellyn Lorge, chief game protector of the Conservation Commission, that in a comparatively few years an open season may be established throughout the state.

Inspector Hanlon, whose division includes the counties of Westchester, Rockland, Kings, Richmond, Nassau, Queens and Suffolk, reports that Long Island and Westchester county are overrun with deer.

Inspector DeSilva, whose division includes the counties of Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan, Putnam and Ulster, reports that deer are plentiful in the Catskill mountains.

Inspector Johnston, whose division includes the counties of Albany, Columbia, Rensselaer, Schenectady and Greene, reports that deer are increasing in Rensselaer and Greene counties, with no particular change noticed in Columbia county.

Inspector Leland, whose division includes the counties of Hamilton, Washington, Saratoga and Warren, reports: "We never had as many deer outside of the back woods as there are at the present time. In the back woods in Hamilton county many deer died last spring."

Inspector Burmaster, whose division includes the counties of Clinton, Essex, and Franklin, reports a marked decrease in the number of deer. His report states: "We had snow until May. On April 24 I tried to go from Saranac Lake to Santa Clara, the roads had just been plowed that day and the snow along the road was higher than my car. Not a deer had moved. On Bay Pond in the Rockefeller Park, Whitney Park and the Loew and Barber estate I found dead deer everywhere I went. Carcasses examined by a veterinarian showed that they died from pneumonia. I believe they lived on brush for a while and then became weak and died. One dead deer that was found was examined and his stomach was full of browse, but his lungs were inflamed. I believe that most of the deer that died were does. There seems to be a larger percentage of bucks than does this year and very few fawns. I did not see a fawn this year until late in July and some of the watchmen on Rockefeller Park had not seen a fawn over there. One day I drove through the park, a distance of about nine miles, where I usually see thirty or forty deer, and I saw two deer, one doe with a fawn and one doe without a fawn."

Inspector Claude E. Underhill, whose division includes the counties of Montgomery, Fulton, Herkimer, Schoharie and Otsego, reports: "We had lots of information about deer dying in some parts of my division. I made a special trip in particular where I was told they had died and had a protector with me. We did not find where a single deer had died. We went through places where they yarded and did not find a dead deer or any evidence where they died. I would say we have just as many deer as we have had for the past few years. In Otsego, Schoharie and Montgomery counties I would say that there are deer enough to have an open season. They have become a nuisance to the farmers who have become prejudiced against the deer. I think we should have an open season in these counties."

Inspector Gammon, whose district includes the counties of St. Lawrence, Jefferson and Lewis, reports that deer are not as plentiful as last year.

Inspector Weston, whose division includes the counties of Cayuga, Oswego, Onondaga, Oneida and Madison, three of which have not open season on deer, reports that deer are plentiful as does Inspector Slater, whose district includes the counties of Cortland, Chenango, Broome, Delaware, Schuyler, Tompkins, Tioga and Chemung.

Inspector Hamilton, whose district includes the counties of Allegany, Monroe, Ontario, Seneca, Steuben, Wayne and Yates, reports: "In my territory there are about twenty deer roaming around, and we watch them very carefully."

Up the beanstalk

WHEN Jack climbed the beanstalk, he got a new conception of his needs. No longer would just a hen do, but a golden-egg hen. No longer just a harp, but one that stood by itself and played. He didn't know what he wanted till he saw something better than what he had . . . though he labored hand over hand to get hold of that point of view.

Advertisements give you a high point of view without any climbing at all. They spread world products before you—servants to serve you, conveniences to please—prices low because so many thousands are using the same. They give you a new conception of what you'd like to own. No longer will a watch or food chopper do—but the highest improved watch or food chopper. No longer just a radio—but one of purest transmission. They make you change your mind about what you started to choose, and choose something more pleasing at no higher price. They help you see the whole field of satisfying wares. They lift you to fresh joys.

Tracing Knox Cannon Trail

From Fort Ticonderoga to Boston—
New York State Will Monument
the Route and Join in Celebration.

Albany, Oct. 15.—The route taken by General Henry Knox in transporting from Fort Ticonderoga the cannon that drove the British from Boston has been marked by a committee of the Advisory Board of Battlefields and Historic Sites, and plans are being made by the board in agreement with the Massachusetts authorities for suitably marking the route and holding joint dedicatory exercises on the New York-Massachusetts line next year.

The members of the committee, which consists of Dr. Alexander C. Flick, State Historian, chairman; Senator Mortimer Y. Ferris, Ticonderoga; Senator Warren T. Thayer, Chateaugay and Francis Lynch of Victory Mills, with Major Albert S. Callan of Chatham and William M. Hill of Fort Edward, who are assisting the committee, have been engaged for several weeks in determining the exact route taken in transporting the cannon and stores and have been over the entire route jointly with the Massachusetts Commission.

On December 6, 1775, General Knox began to remove the artillery and arms from Fort Ticonderoga to Concord at a dock near the fort which has been located. From the dock they were taken several miles by water to a bridge on the outlet of Lake George. This place also has been found. From the bridge they were transferred to carts and wagons and carried over the military road which is now partly abandoned but clearly discernible to the landing dock at the foot of Lake George.

On December 9, 1775, the expedition started up Lake George and finally landed safely at Fort George on December 15. At Fort George there was a delay necessitated by the need of securing sleds, oxen and horses. General Knox hurried ahead to Albany to get the assistance of General Schuyler in providing means for conveyance.

About the first of January, 1776, the cannon and stores were loaded on sleds and the train started southward. The route followed from Lake George to Fort Edward is approximately the main highway of today. From Fort Edward to Northumberland the route has not been definitely determined but at Northumberland, where the guns were ferried across the Hudson and from that point down to Half Moon, the route is clearly marked.

On January 4, a brass 24 pounder and a small mortar reached Albany by a route that still remains to be traced. Apparently it was General Knox's plan to have the cannon taken across Lansing's Ferry at Half Moon and then carried on to Kinderhook on the east side of the Hudson. However, when a large cannon broke through the ice at Lansing's Ferry that plan was abandoned and the cannon were taken up the Mohawk river to "Bloss" or "Claus" Ferry, where they were taken across the ice and carried on to Albany over what is today the Loudonville road entering the city through the Northern Boulevard, formerly called Knox street.

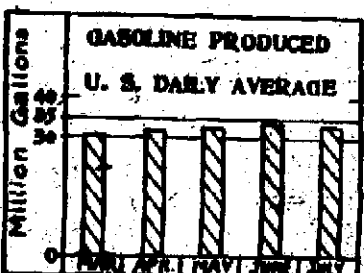

On January 6-8, 1776, the cannon were taken across the Hudson river on the ice at the South Ferry, at the foot of Ferry street. Here another heavy cannon broke through the ice but was recovered. From this point the route follows the old Post Road through Kinderhook to Claverack and thence via Hollowville, Martin-dale and Claryville to Hillsdale and across the Massachusetts line. While a few points still remain to be cleared up by further study the entire route from Fort Ticonderoga to the eastern state line has been substantially determined, opening the way to the determination of the sites for the markers.

The committee has discussed the type, size, material and inscription of a dignified and appropriate marker. It has also held several joint meetings with the Massachusetts Commission for the purpose of agreeing upon a uniform marker along the entire route through New York and Massachusetts.

Between now and next summer plans will be worked out for inter-state dedicatory exercises to be held on the New York-Massachusetts state line and local dedicatory exercises in every town, village and city where markers are to be placed.

GASOLINE COMING FROM COAL.

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 25. (Special).—In Europe at the present time the dearth of natural petroleum under the ground has actually forced Europe to investigate its coal possibilities almost feverishly. More than one American authority on oil grows to believe that the oil supply in the United States is definitely limited. But in the absence of a satisfactory substitute, gasoline we must have.

This is easily realized as we glance back over the past few months and note the millions of gallons of gasoline produced each day, on the average, in this country. It is no wonder, therefore, that American engineers are interested in learning from German scientists how to make gasoline from coal. The conference on Bituminous coal at the Carnegie Institute of Technology next month will bear watching.

Almost a Billion In Year and a Half

New York State's Business Conducted on Large Scale, Comptroller Murphy Shows—Advises That State Provide For a Rainy Day.

Albany, Oct. 23.—Illustration of the large scale on which the state of New York conducts its business is revealed in the fact that its revenues and expenditures for the past 18 months reach the amazing total of nearly one billion dollars.

Statistics made available today by State Comptroller Vincent B. Murphy show that from January 1, 1925, to October 1, 1928, no less than $504,095,000 have flowed into the state treasury in one form of revenue or another.

During the same period the state expended $481,055,000 for various purposes.

These figures do not by any means cover all the financial transactions entered upon by the people of the state. To them must be added the $400,000,000 bond issue approved by the voters last election day for grade crossing removal, construction work and park development. Toward these projects, $28,000,000 worth of bonds have already been issued by the comptroller.

Adding these $400,000,000 to the $935,151,000 represented by income and outgo—the total volume of the public dollar of the state swells to the staggering total of $1,385,151,000 in 18 months.

Must Provide for Rainy Day.

"The revenues of the state are constantly growing, but so are its expenditures," said Comptroller Murphy in making the above figures public.

"Revenues will continue to grow so long as the tide of prosperity keeps on rising, but when ebb sets in—watch out."

"We have so far escaped additional tax assessments but these will have to come if the state's revenue is curtailed by a slump in business or unless provision is made for the proverbial rainy day through the simple expedient of cutting down expenses and increasing the state's surplus. Our cash balance is melting rapidly. At the close of the fiscal year of 1924-25 it was $25,000,000. The present fiscal year will find the state with a cash balance of only about $10,000,000 according to present estimates."

Monies Returned to Localities.

Included in the revenues and expenditures for the past 18 months are $84,797,000 collected by the state and returned to the localities as their share in motor vehicle, franchise and income taxes.

New York city received more than half of this amount, namely, $52,268,000. Next comes Erie county with $5,457,000; Westchester, $3,489,000; Monroe, $3,114,000; Onondaga, $1,776,000 and, Nassau, Niagara, Oneida, Albany and Schoenectady with well over $1,000,000 each.

The following is a summary of state tax money received by Ulster county from the comptroller during the period covered: Motor, $125,000; income, $118,000; franchise, $55,000; total, $298,000.

The following is a summary of the total amount of taxes received by the localities: Motor, $12,911,000; income, $48,869,000; franchise, $23,582,000; total, $84,864,000.

Bobbie Knew

Little Bobbie's mother took him to Sunday school every Sunday. She also taught a Sunday school class, and during this time Bobbie was left in the Junior department. On this particular Sunday his mother had several occasions to pass through the Junior department and on each occasion she noticed that one or more of the little boys would be crying, but Bobbie was always sitting up in his little red chair like a little man.

On arriving home Bobbie's mother said, "Dear, I was surely proud of you today; you didn't cry at all and so many of the other children were crying."

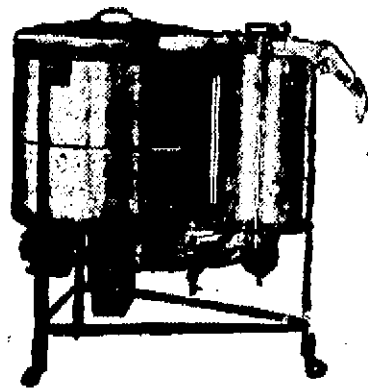

She noticed that Bobbie hung his head, then she added, "Why were they crying?" "Cause I'm pinching them," truthfully answered little Bobbie.

Blocked by Butterflies

Blocked by a cloud of butterflies was the experience of three travelers in a light automobile in Ceylon recently.

The butterflies descended with smothering impact, says Popular Mechanics, producing the sensation of having been struck by a cotton hammer, according to one of the party who described the "attack." The wheels of the auto skidded and with difficulty made headway through the thousands of tiny bodies which covered the car and its occupants, forcing the men to shield their faces. The stifling encounter lasted seven minutes, when the butterfly legions were left behind. Millions of the insects gather in close formations such as this during migration.

This NEW EASY Washer Does Two Things at Once— Dries while it Washes

Washing, rinsing, and drying at the same time — it means you wash in half the time. The Easy Vacuum Cups cleanse delicate fabrics gently—human hands are not as thorough. A gas burner below the tub keeps the water just hot and sudsy enough.

While the second tub-full is being washed, the New Easy Over spins the first batch dry for the line. Fifteen minutes, even on poor drying days—and the clothes are dry enough for ironing.

The special safety switch stops the motor automatically if the tubs are overloaded. A new water circulating system handles all the water—you just turn a switch.

Women Had Reason to Know About Coyotes

If there is one thing more than another that we dislike to have happen to us, it is to meet a cynical woman. We don't mind meeting a cynical man because most men don't know any better than to be that way. But when a woman is cynical it seems to us that she has stepped wholly out of her character, as the actors say.

The way it happened was that we had stopped at a little ranch on a high road to get some water for Henry. It was the middle of a hot day and Henry had been tearing along for many miles at a pretty good clip. So we thought another little drink wouldn't do him any harm, as the saying is.

And at the ranch was a woman who was in a bad humor. And the reason she was in a bad humor was that the coyotes had been killing her chickens. She showed us the place where these rascals had taken place, and we wondered how it could be, because the roosts for the chickens were too high for the coyotes to reach.

She then explained to us that the way the coyotes did it was to keep walking very rapidly in circles around the chickens until the chickens got so dizzy looking at them that they fell off the roost. And then the roost was easy for the coyotes to grasp.

It is just the way I got caught myself, said the woman. This no-account man that I married kept carrying around me until he got me dizzy watching him, and then he strangled me. He must have learned it from the coyotes, she said.

Well, sir, as we jogged along the high road this thing that the woman said bothered us so that we couldn't think of anything else. But we were glad that we didn't see the man. Because any man who would not like a coyote to trap a woman to be run at all and we would walk ten miles out of our way, my dear, to avoid meeting him. John Stevens McDermott in Los Angeles Times.

Our idea of a dumb-bell is the sap who tried to start the coyotes clock by putting in bird seed.

The High Crown May Be Difficult to Wear, but When It Is Good, It Is, Like the Fabled Girl, "Very, Very Good."

Jugglers all! It seems as though it will be necessary for us to become so, that we may preserve a nice balance under our topping hats. Crowns have grown enormously tall, and have to be kept in place by such ingenious and decorative devices as pleating. They have tucks in them, too, and here and there are crushed into some semblance of the head's contour, only to billow out again in the fashion of the silhouette we have been taught to call the Congo.

Interesting patch work effects, really appliques, have become the mode, many of these patches being of such furs as calf and antelope. It really has been some time since furs were important as a hat trimming, longer since the all-fur hat disappeared. Now both seem about to stage a come-back. The Rebozo

Tan Soleil Makes This Hat, With Its High Draped Crown and the Applique of Calfskin on the Side. The Rebozo is Blashed on the Side and Has a Small Back Cuff.

An Unusual Shade of Black Velvet With Chartreuse, Yellow, Wine and Green Tones Set in Through the Drapes of the Crown Front and Side. A New French Ribbon of Grosgrain Makes the Crown Band.

It is smart in the extreme of shaved or baby lamb, for it rather goes without saying that it is the pliable pelts that are in use, furs that may be handled as one would handle the most flexible fabric.

The pros and cons of the velvet versus the felt hat are discussed everywhere, and both have staunch supporters. There should be no hue and cry over the supremacy of one over the other, since there are many, many occasions for which a velvet hat is not in good taste, and none when a felt one is remise. The formal function makes it purely a matter of personal choice whether one appears in a felt or a velvet. There are half-gods between: soiled, beading ribbon, moire and novelty silks, which must, of course, include some broadcases.

CONGREGATION VOTES AGAINST SUNDAY MOVIES

At the morning service at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday, the congregation voted unanimously against having Sunday movies in Kingston. In the course of his sermon on "The Church and Public Questions," the pastor, the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, gave three reasons why Kingston should not have Sunday movies. First, Sunday movies are unnecessary, since there are many opportunities and plenty of leisure to enjoy movies during the week. Second, it is not necessary for the movies to remain open seven days in the week in order to pay expenses and to make a profit on the business. Third, Sunday movies interfere with the work of the churches in that they create an atmosphere on Sunday that is distinctly antagonistic to the best religious life. They are a distraction, an influence on a day that the churches use for the religious and moral uplift of the people.

Food Preservation

Food may be preserved by freezing, such as fish and poultry; by refrigeration, such as meat, butter, milk, eggs; by canning, such as fruit; by curing, such as fruit juices and condensed milk; by exclusion of air, such as eggs in lime water; by drying, such as prunes and peaches; by evaporation, such as corn, beef and fish; by salting, such as cucumbers; by oil, such as sardines.

FAVORITE FRUITS

Next to the taste and palatability of our food, we like to have it appeal to the eye. Food daintily garnished and nicely served will be more appetizing than that which is served carelessly.

For a centerpiece place a luscious basket of fruit garnished with its own leaves when possible, is an ornament to any table.

When fresh fruit is not available, mold a few preserved berries in orange, lemon, or pineapple gelatin. Serve the quivering moulds with whipped cream and a few of the berries.

Halves of muskmelon filled with ice cream and garnished with small pieces of candied or preserved ginger to simulate seeds, are both pretty and palatable.

Muskmelon or watermelon, cut with a French potato cutter into balls, filling sherbet or cocktail glasses with same, and adding a sauce of lemon or ginger syrup makes a most delicious first course for the beginning of a dinner.

Grated apple, added to egg white and powdered sugar and beaten until stiff, then served surrounded with a thin custard, is a most acceptable dessert.

Stewed pears cored and the cavities filled with jelly and served with whipped cream, is another dish worthy of trial.

Baked pears dressed with lemon juice, butter and sugar and baked while baking, is a delicious dish to serve with meats.

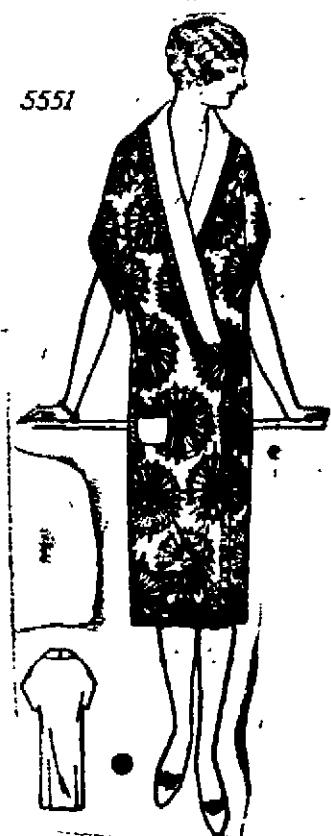

Peaches put through a sieve after removing the skin, add to ice cream mixtures. Serve with fresh sliced peaches.

For those who cannot eat uncooked fruit try this: Stew apples or pears (coring them first), in a lemon or sugar syrup until tender, then decorate with quartered blanched almonds, sticking the tender fruit quite full of the nuts, so that the apples look like young porcupines. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and set in the oven to brown the tips of the almonds. Serve with whipped cream.

Influenza Ravages

Authorities offer us to the first account of influenza, as well as to the history of epidemics occurring before 1900. A severe epidemic in 603 B. C. described by Hippocrates and Lucretius is thought to have been influenza. Another epidemic of the disease has occurred frequently since 1719.

Fresh-made steaming hot oatmeal
—ready in a jiffy

It is no longer any trouble to have hot oatmeal for the children frequently. Quick Mother's Oats cooks in 3 to 5 minutes.

Like the Mother's Oats you have always known, it is made by careful sifting from the cream of the oat crop. It is the natural whole grain—with some of the valuable parts removed.

That is one reason it tastes so good. And that is why it is the breakfast approved by child health specialists. For now it is being shown that sound, perfect development comes from the right growth foods.

A cup of Quick Mother's Oats, with a cup of milk, contributes nearly one-quarter of the protein needed by a growing child in a day.

Enlarged Activity In Auto Racing

Program Adopted by New Contest
Board of the American Automobile
Association—Special Contests for Women Drivers Among the New Features Suggested.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—A greatly enlarged program of auto racing activity looking to the promotion of the sport, the betterment of driving and the improvement of automobiles generally, has been adopted here at the first meeting of the new Contest Board of the Automobile Association.

The new board, which is the national and international authority on American auto races that have official and championship status, held its inaugural meeting at the Headquarters of the American Automobile Association here.

The board, which convened at the invitation of Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., is composed of leading representatives of the public and the press, of outstanding automotive engineers, of spokesmen of champion drivers and of representatives of the board speedways and the dirt tracks operating under Contest Board sanctions and safeguards. Following are the members of the board who were present at today's conference:

Mr. Henry, Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the A. A. A., and Val Harens, manager of the Contest Board took part in the conference on behalf of the parent organization.

One of the most interesting suggestions put forward today related to the feasibility of the board under taking the sanction of races which would enable women drivers to exhibit their skill behind the wheel and to promote greater interest in racing and in driving among the millions of women car owners in America. Such contests, it was said, could be conducted in various sections of the country and there is no reason why we should not have a champion woman driver just as we have champion women golfers, swimmers and tennis players.

Engineers to Study Racing.
Another important resolution adopted today was to request the Society of Automotive Engineers to make a technical study of major A. A. A. racing events with a view to the drafting of a report on the operation of various makes of cars and accessories. This data would be made available to the manufacturers and such of it as would interest the public would be broadcasted to the press. This step, it was said, would bring the Board and its operations into more intimate contact with automotive engineering.

Because of the great many unlicensed and unregulated auto races conducted by promoters who are not financially responsible, who do not give the public what they pay for and from which the drivers often go without their prize money and in which many serious accidents occur because of lack of adequate safety standards, it was the unanimous wish of the board that the A. A. A. body should undertake the development of plans whereby the larger dirt tracks operated at state and local fairs and as independent ventures would be brought under the sanction of the Contest Board. This policy, members averred, will assure first-class championship races in many places where the public heretofore has had no opportunity to see first-class drivers in action.

Development of "B Course."
It will also mean the development of a secondary or "B Course" under the Contest Board, which will provide working opportunities for many good drivers who do not have automobiles capable of qualifying in the fast company competing today on the major board championship speedways. It will also mean that the element of sportsmanship and competition will enter into races where it is now absent because of inside control and exhibition of teams operating on a commercial basis, rather than as a competitive sport.

The board strongly endorsed the old policy of continuing tests specifically designed for "stock cars" produced for sale by the automobile factories as distinctive from specially designed racing cars. Along the same line, the board declared its willingness to undertake the testing of motor accessories by specially designated institutions, such as technical colleges and so on, under rules drawn up by the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Open Meeting Of Federation

Members Hear of Need of New T. B. Hospital, Oppose Sunday Movies in Kingston and Hear Lecture by Dr. Cady.

The open meeting of The Federation of Women's Clubs held at the chapel of The First Reformed Church on Saturday afternoon proved to be of unusual interest as there were matters of civic importance discussed and an inspiring talk was given by the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady.

Following the routine opening business, Mrs. A. Ray Powley, the president, presiding, it was announced that one new member had been received, Mrs. Arthur Cragin.

When Mrs. Reed was called on for a report of the good government committee, she stated that her report would be a forward-looking one as the committee had not been active to any extent during the summer. She called attention to the fact that the vital importance of a new Tuberculosis Hospital for Ulster county was practically in the hands of the supervisors of the county, including those of the city. Mrs. Reed recalled that this was the first county in the state to have a Tuberculosis Hospital but that now it stands at the bottom of the list of counties having such hospitals in that it has much fewer beds for tuberculosis patients in proportion to its death rate than have any of the other hospitals. The good government committee and others knowing conditions at this hospital feel keenly that it is not the worst charge against it. It is so absolutely inadequate in every way, especially as to all modern equipment that it is impossible to keep for any length of time such efficient help of every sort—nursing, cooking, cleaning—needed to care for sick people. The hospital is facing that condition together with a shortage of beds, while the Tuberculosis Committee in providing a special Tuberculosis nurse has no proper place to send the patients that the nurse would recommend to go to the hospital. If the tuberculosis death rate is to be lowered, the committee believes there must be a new and adequate hospital, on what the state, city and county authorities consider a proper site—not necessarily the present site.

Mrs. Reed was emphatic in stating that the matter was largely up to the women of the community for they should go at once to the supervisor of their respective ward and urge upon him the necessity for the safety of the community of a new Tuberculosis Hospital at once.

Mrs. Kierstedt supplemented Mrs. Reed's report by suggesting that the women need not be satisfied with seeing just their own supervisor but see others as they might know.

Dr. Day, chairman of the public health committee and the moving picture committee, stated that she had no further report to make on the public health subject than the one she made at the executive committee meeting, to the effect that all was in readiness for the coming Christmas Seal Sale.

On the request of the president, Dr. Day read an article describing the educational experiments about to be tried by the Educational Kodak Company in the way of educational films as a part of visual education. These experiments will be tried out in ten large cities widely scattered over the country and will cover a period of two years; several educational subjects will be included.

In connection with the Sunday movie problem for this city, Dr. Day read the resolution presented by her to the executive committee at its last meeting, for action by the open meeting. This resolution was unanimously adopted as follows:

Resolved that the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs again goes on record as opposed to "Sunday movies."

We do this, because we believe that the religious, moral, intellectual and economic life of this city will be advanced to a greater degree, by excluding rather than allowing "Sunday Movies."

We urge all citizens, who have the welfare of this city at heart, to vote against this proposition on election day.

The president of the Federation stated that she had been so favorably impressed with the two ads run in Thursday's and Friday's issue of The Freeman by the Federated Church Men's Club of the city, opposing Sunday movies for Kingston, that she had cut them out of the paper and posted them on the hymn board so that all present could see them after the meeting. They were read by practically all of the women who had not happened to read them in the newspaper and were emphatically agreed to.

Very brief reports telling of the subjects of this year's study were given by representatives of the Monday Club, Lovell Club, Second, Twentieth Century Club, Coterie, and the president in behalf of the Federation thanked the Twentieth Century Club for the interesting and very informing moving pictures shown by the Conservation Commission and brought to the Fair Street Reformed Church by that club.

Delegates to State Convention.

At the recent executive committee meeting the chairman was empowered to act as the chief delegate from the Kingston Federation to attend the coming State Federation Convention to be held at Binghamton on November 8 to 12, inclusive, and to appoint three other delegates and four alternates. The three delegates Mrs. Powley announced as being Mrs. W. N. Fennenden, Mrs. John N. Cordis and Mrs. Hewitt Boice. The alternates will be announced later.

Dr. Cady Lectures.

The meeting was then turned over to the Monday Club, the entertaining club. Mrs. William Lawton, president of the Monday Club, said that about ten years ago the Monday Club had the pleasure of presenting to a Kingston audience a then new speaker who was now an old friend, the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady. Two years ago all who heard him were edified and pleased with his lecture on "The Romance of Art" and the subject for the day, "The Enjoyment of the Beautiful," gave promise of being an great success.

Dr. Cady began his talk by saying that the enjoyment of the beautiful would enable all of us to keep our youth. But in order to gain this we must know what was meant by the word "beautiful." With all of the special emphasis on "personality," "self-expression," "individuality," etc.,

three other delegates and four alternates. The three delegates Mrs. Powley announced as being Mrs. W. N. Fennenden, Mrs. John N. Cordis and Mrs. Hewitt Boice. The alternates will be announced later.

Dr. Cady Lectures.

The meeting was then turned over to the Monday Club, the entertaining club. Mrs. William Lawton, president of the Monday Club, said that about ten years ago the Monday Club had the pleasure of presenting to a Kingston audience a then new speaker who was now an old friend, the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady. Two years ago all who heard him were edified and pleased with his lecture on "The Romance of Art" and the subject for the day, "The Enjoyment of the Beautiful," gave promise of being an great success.

Dr. Cady began his talk by saying that the enjoyment of the beautiful would enable all of us to keep our youth. But in order to gain this we must know what was meant by the word "beautiful." With all of the special emphasis on "personality," "self-expression," "individuality," etc., definitions today need careful scrutiny to be sure that the viewpoint is right in giving the definition. Dr. Cady said that his idea of the beautiful was not superficial—just a gratification of eye or ear—it went beyond the appeal to the senses. "Beautiful," the speaker considered the subject, descriptive adjective in our language, applying to the inner and spiritual part of life. Through a master of color and form, Mikalé, the great artist, said that in painting a mother he always tried to prevent the mother-love that she cast upon her child, the very heart of the subject.

The speaker felt that the world owes Mikalé a debt of gratitude for his efforts to bring the beautiful which he claimed was everywhere for everybody. He, the cosmopolitan practical thinker of life, and removed the trappings of "art for art's sake." Cady believed that every object had some beauty.

Two men looked out from prison bars: One saw but mud; the other saw the stars.

In the heart of all is the instinctive love of the beautiful. Dr. Cady told how in the capital of Iceland and the farthest inhabited city of Norway he found in at least one window of every house a window box of blossoming flowers, usually beautiful roses. Therefore it did not seem strange to find cities amazingly clean and people courteous and kindly—all beauty in various forms.

In telling of a recent trip through the Plattekill Gorge since the autumnal foliage has been so gorgeous, and on which the scenery was of surpassing glory. Dr. Cady said that beauty was a thing of the emotions, something that can be felt but never adequately described.

To enjoy beauty much depends upon one's approach. The Greeks believed in the beauty of beauty, though they wrapped it with the outward form. The Romans believed in the beauty of beauty, reversing the idea and setting it at the heart of the matter. Quoting Carlyle again, Dr. Cady said that his audience should "We see that in which we bring the means of seeing." We must have an inward sense of beauty, of seeing values. Beauty of character is the most beauty but for that there must be a preparation of the spirit. Dr. Cady said there was one test upon which he had never dared to preach. It was too big. "And ye shall see Him by cause ye shall be like Him." Unless even the least bit like Him, how could we dare to hope to ever see Him?

The enjoyment of beauty makes us crave added enjoyment of more beauty and the wish to share with others. The man who "just heard" the jazz records of his talking machine at first, came to "listen, really" to a lot of good music, and then wanted more such music and finally converted his neighbors to the same state of mind, an increasing enjoyment of the beautiful.

If we persistently seek the good, the true, the beautiful, we shall find ourselves coming the "best" and seeing the "stars" and shall finally "become ourselves like Him," our consecration of enjoyment of the beautiful.

It was a wise shopper who knew where to be vaccinated back in the pagan age.

Seek Antiques in West

Antique hunters of the West are tending off the yoke of the Eastern seaboard in the search for Americana and are dragging forth relics of California's colonialists to honored places at their firesides. Branding irons of the early California ranches are quite as much of a fad with Californians as the old glass or highboys of the Eastern coast. The collection of branding irons has its experts, although a comparatively new development, and also has brought a nice calculation of value. Most of the branding irons are being used in Spanish-style interiors as fireplace furnishings.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

WDBZ was right on the mark Sunday morning with a perfect broadcasting of a remarkable sermon by Dr. Seelye on the lessons to be drawn from the Gadarene swine episode. The principal point seemed to be that too often "pigs is pigs" and the cost of the pigs is permitted to overshadow more important things.

Sunday night reception was nothing to write home about, although it reached far. There was considerable of what the Sage of Wurts street calls "dirt in the air."

Saturday night was another story. Not only was DX reception good but many stations seldom heard under even the best conditions and themselves manifest. Included were the new wave jumpers who will add to the difficulty in receiving old established stations. One of these is WKPW of Buffalo, which plans to put on an almost continuous continuous service on 262 meters. The other is CNCR, 291 meters, at Toronto, another "Watch Tower" station. A peculiarly abrupt wave jumper is the trouble of religious or religious stations that are doing it.

The Incurable Radio Cough sends in a box of 49 stations received Saturday night, among them Boston, Mass., to Stevens Point, Wis., but singularly deficient in southern stations.

WSKC. In a week or so they will probably be singing "Horses."

The broadcasting of "The Miracle" direct from the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, Tuesday night, October 26, through Stations WIP and WGES has been canceled. The reason for this cancellation is due to a ruling by the Actors' Equity Association, which claims one-eighth of a week's salary for all its members participating in any performance that is broadcast. Inasmuch as "The Miracle" is strictly a pantomime, it was felt that the unusual ruling would not apply. This broadcast had been chosen to celebrate the second anniversary of the opening of Station WGES, and the station director has announced that a special surprise program will be provided, which, it is hoped, will prove equally appealing.

A Non-Partisan Judiciary

In the Third Judicial District comprising the Counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Schoharie and Sullivan there are seven Justices of the Supreme Court.

and Commercial

New York, Oct. 25 (AP).—Reactionary price tendencies again developed in today's stock market when it became apparent that the immediate buying requirements of the short interest had been satisfied. Among the reasons assigned for the selling was publication of the government's record-breaking crop estimate of 17,454,000 bushels, business and election uncertainties and the lack of public participation. Trading was relatively dull.

There were a few conspicuous exceptions to the general downward trend. May Department Stores was bid up to a new record high at 142 1/2 in anticipation of special dividend action, and an active inquiry developed for shares of some of the soft coal producing and distributing companies.

Nearly a dozen issues collapsed to new low levels for the year, or longer. The list included Century Ribbon, Indian Motorcycle, National Department Stores and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Rails offered fairly good resistance to pressure although Atchafalaya, Atlantic Coast Line and a few other recent strong spots yielded a point or so.

The members of the Society of Christian Mothers of St. Peter's Church will hold a prayer service at the late home Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Joseph F. Smith, a veteran of the World War, died suddenly Sunday afternoon at his home, No. 62 East Pierpont street, of gastric ulcer of the stomach, shortly after eating his dinner. He had been about the house that day apparently in his usual good health, but after eating a hearty meal he collapsed and was picked up dead from the floor. Dr. John F. Larkin was summoned and after an examination stated death was due to the ulcer. The death certificate was issued by Coroner W. Norman Conner, and the body turned over to Undertaker James M. Murphy. He was a member of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, and saw service overseas during the World War as a member of Company C, 104th Machine Gun Battalion, 25th Division. He saw service at the front in the Ararat sector, Mesopotamia and Thibet sector, and returned from overseas in 1915 when he received his honorable discharge. He is survived by his father, George Frederick and Edward Smith; three sisters, Mrs. Frederick Sharp, Mrs. Daniel Kane and Mrs. Michael Mancuso. Mr. Smith will be buried with military honors. Funeral from his late home on Wednesday morning at 2:30 o'clock and a high Mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of his soul at the Immaculate Conception Church.

Outage Prayer Meeting.

Million Stars in Cluster.

Astronomers count the great cluster of Hercules as one of the most interesting of globular systems. It appears to the naked eye as a small star, but under the heavy glasses it is found to contain no fewer than 25,000 stars and they can be photographed today with the improved wide star study, and astronomers claim that it is relatively possible that Hercules, in the naked eye, is a star of the sixth magnitude, may have at least a million stars in the cluster, all casting their rays forth together.

Farm and Home Bureau Meetings

Chamber of Commerce Entertains at Accord—Home Talent Plays Drawing Card at Stone Ridge and Kyserville.

The Accord community is the next to be the happy recipient of the fine program being staged by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in the Farm Bureau communities throughout Ulster county. The meeting is scheduled for Wednesday evening, October 27, beginning at 8 o'clock. It will be held in the I. O. O. F. Hall. The very name "Accord" to Ulster county people means a "bumper crowd". Those wishing not to be turned away better remember the hour, eight o'clock. Of course, there will be eats.

"The Play's The Thing."

Realizing how folks enjoy seeing folks act the role of other folks, and being determined to make the community winning the cup this year set down and dig for the honors, Stone Ridge comes out Thursday evening with real "Thursday Evening" surprise. Everybody is all agog over the dramatic situation in the county next week. To the Stone Ridge people Thursday evening is the only evening for a genuine "Thursday Evening". West Hurley comes back with the retort that Monday evening will do just as well for "Thursday Evening" while to Old Hurley there is no "Thursday Evening" like "Thursday Evening" on Tuesday evening. Leave it to the judges to unwind this tangle.

Stone Ridge invites one and all to the Stone Ridge Grange Hall for their performance which begins at 8:00 o'clock. There will be other surprises and eats, too, galore.

Allgerville-Kyserville.

It will be little short of a miracle if the K. of P. Hall at Allgerville can swallow up the crowd that is preparing for a rendezvous there Friday evening. Will this community hold the cup, or will it not? That is the question, and everybody is going to see just what the Kyserville-Allgerville people are doing about it. At any rate everybody always has a good time and best of all the most delicious refreshments. Eight o'clock is the hour, Friday evening, October 29, the time and the Allgerville K. of P. Hall is the place.

Moore's Famous Poem
Sold Before Written

The full quotation runs: "The trail of the serpent is over them all," and means, "They are all tarred with the same brush," or "They are birds of a feather." The line is from Tom Moore's poem, "Lalla Rookh." "Lalla Rookh" is little read today. Moore's fame resting solidly and lastingly on his "Irish Melodies." But Moore was immensely popular in his lifetime, and got a substantial sum for every song he wrote.

Mr. Stephen Gwynne, in his "Life of Moore," tells that John Murray offered two thousand guineas ($10,000) for the copyright of "Lalla Rookh" before it was written. Moore's friends thought he should have more, and, going to Longman, the rival publishing house, they claimed Mr. Moore should receive the highest price ever paid for a poem.

Dual Set of MannersSign of Boorishness

Many a man is crabbed, moody and stingy in his home and among his family and servants. But let the doorbell ring! Let a visitor call! As if by magic this man becomes suave and generous. He puts on his company manners.

A story is told of a capable executive who lost an opportunity for promotion because his manners among his business associates were not carried over into his home. The president of the concern, who learned in time the dual code of the man, decided not to trust him in a post where instinctive good manners were a prime requisite. The bear had come home, unaware that his superior had preceded him with the offer of advancement, and, before his meek wife could break the news, had groveled out his true nature.

The acid test of good manners is not applied on the street or in the office, where expediency holds the whip and commands obedience. The real test is in the home, with children, among servants and all who may be called inferior; among those who cannot or will not retaliate for a harsh word or a despicable act.

Here the invisible apparel of good manners reveals the gentleman.—Rechercher Times-Union.

Deposit of Rich Ore

Reports from Stockholm state that some very rich ore deposits have been discovered in the province of Westerbotten, in northern Sweden, not far from the Arctic circle. The ore contains quantities of gold, silver, copper and arsenic. The extent of the deposits has not yet been fully ascertained, but the chief of Sweden's geological survey predicts that the gold field will prove to be the fourth richest in the world, and that the other minerals will be still more valuable.

BE TRUE TO

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

BE WELL content with what was sent.
What gift your God may leave you.
Be glad, my lad, for friends you had.
Whatever friends deceive you.
The hills will lose the green of spring.
The months the chills of winter bring.
But earth's the earth through every thing—
Be glad although they grieve you.

Keep on your way through green or gray.
Whatever winds assail you—
Oh, you be true the winter through.
Whatever treasurers trail you.
For I would rather lose a friend
Than be the one myself to bend—
Oh, keep on faithful to the end.
Whatever friends may fail you.

And, after all, when shadows fall,
When long the years behind you,
Let not one blot, one darker spot,
To other blessings blind you.
If you can look within your heart
And find no stain of evil art,
Though lions lie, though friends depart,
There peace you still will find you.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

HENYARD MAGIC

IN SOME parts of the South, it is believed that if a bright fire is kept burning upon the hearth it will prevent chicken cholera among the hens. In some sections of the country there is a superstition that the throwing of a handful of stones upon a fire while it is burning brightly will prevent the chickens from being carried off by hawks. There is another means of preventing the ravages of hawks upon the chicken yard and that is by waving a lighted candle over the eggs when a "setting" is placed under a hen. Chickens hatched from those eggs will be safe from their enemies of the air. This latter superstition is quite common in England and is sometimes found in rural districts of this country and Canada. The same may be said of the belief that it is unlucky to set a hen after dark and the one which says that no good will come of a setting of eggs laid after sunset.

Degrees of Poverty

People reckon themselves poor as they lack money, yet there is a great poverty. Many men and women go through the world unaware of the poverty, the goodness, and the glories in it. Such people, though they have money, are poor indeed.—GEM.

The Egoist

I have been denied a certain joy many times. There are persons who regard themselves as perfect, and feel pleasure in the belief; in criticism of these not equally blessed with content.

I have often wondered what the attitude of the really great is toward themselves. Will Shakespeare, surrounded with immortality, or did he content himself with immortality as he was unable to do his best? If this was the case, what a wonder in the person of a man who, contemplating himself, said on his tomb in verse:—
